The London office is located very conveniently about 150 metres from the Notting Hill Gate tube station in central London. This station lies on the Central, Circle and District underground (tube) lines. When exiting the tube, head north on Pembridge Gardens (the road flanked by the Royal Bank of Scotland and the Book Warehouse) and the office, number 21, will be on your right. It has a blue door and a fair amount of foliage out front.

From Heathrow Airport

You have two options coming from Heathrow. Option #1: the easiest and fastest is to jump on the Heathrow Express (15 min ride; costs about £25 return) which will take you straight to Paddington Station in central London. From here you can either take a cab (5-10 min ride; costs £7; just give the driver the address above) or take the tube to Notting Hill Gate (5 min ride; costs £3 for a single). Option #2 is to take the tube the whole way (takes over an hour and is a greater hassle, but will cost only about £5, the price of a single from Zone 6 to Zone 1): take the Piccadilly line to Earl's Court where you'll switch to the District line and take it up to Notting Hill Gate.

From Gatwick Airport

As with Heathrow, the express train is definitely easiest. Take the Gatwick Express to Victoria Station (30 min ride; costs about £25 return) and then either take a cab to the office (20 min; about £15) or the tube on the Circle Line to Notting Hill Gate (about 15 min; £3 for a single). Unlike Heathrow, the tube does not go all the way out to Gatwick so your only other option is a bus with the National Express.

From Stansted Airport

The Stansted Express is your best option here, and this will take you to Liverpool Street Station (45 min ride; costs about £25 return). As above, you can either get a cab (30 min; about £25) or the tube on the Central or Circle Lines (Central is quicker) to Notting Hill Gate (about 25 min; £3 for a single). You can also take a bus with the National Express.

From Luton Airport, or others

There is no express train service from these airports, but you can always take a shuttle or a bus with, again, the National Express.
